Mr. W.R. Roalfe,
Librarian, Duke Law School,
Durham, N.C.

Dear Bob:-

Mrs. Adams and I have both read with interest the draft of the Constitution of the Association submitted with your letter of the 25th. Neither of us have any suggestions as to changes, as it appears to meet the needs quite adequately.

Please accept our thanks for this service to the Association. I realize that you are busy and that it is almost an imposition on any librarian's time to request him or her to lay down the work of the particular library in order to do work for the Association, but work which is done well apparently must be done by people who are already busy.

Mrs. Adams sends to Miss Covington her congratulations upon Miss Covington's elevation to the Presidency. Incidentally, both of us regard Miss Covington's election as a happy and well-merited choice.

With kindest regards from us both, I am

Cordially,

Dillard S. Gardner
